Pennsylvania State University

Also known as Penn state University. A campus town with the great environment.
“Before you go”

Okay, let me warn you something before you actually leave the house to catch a plane! DON'T FORGET UR VISA! (2 pages of paper that the embassy gave it back to u with your own passport.) Don't ever ever ever forget this. Also set at least a day for packing. You will be unbelievably busy a week before leaving. You don't have to spend the whole 24 hours for packing, but make sure you have times to pack everything you need. Don't just throw everything in 5 hours before you leave. And really watch out for the weight. Make sure you read the luggage policy of the airline.

About the school, Pennstate has a very very good computer system. The university will send you a package given you all the instruction of what to do and when to do it. The very important thing I want to emphasize here is the housing. If you want to stay on campus, you will have to answer some questions online. Make sure you answer them as real as you can because all those answers to the questions will decide which hall you will be staying for the whole semester.

“Get Stated”

When you arrived there, well Penn state is pretty much a college town, so it's very safe and convenience to go everywhere. You will have a choice of living on campus or the houses outside campus. I chose to live on campus because it will be convenience to go to classes. I stayed in North hall, private bedroom and bathroom. So I have no problem with roommates at all. Also all of my classes are very close to North hall. It took me like 5 minuets to walk from my room and sit in the classes.

“Life for a semester”

After knowing all the location in campus, I pretty much got used to the life there. My life there pretty much the same as here in Bangkok, but more peaceful. There are lots of activities you can join at Pennstate such as every friday will have movies at the HUB.

There is a meal plan for eating meal on the campus. It's a great buffet with the famous ice-cream creamery for dessert!

Pennstate is soo closed too everything!

If you want to go to the real big mall for Black Friday, you can get a ride to Philly for 2 hours and you will get to "king of Prussia mall" the second largest mall of USA.

If you like adventure, you can go rafting at Ohio which is super closed! Or go snowboarding at Tussey Mountain. Or you can catch a plane to enjoy the Disney world, or Hawaii for your long holiday break.

I

If you are looking for a place where you can play hard and study hard. Pennstate is definitely one of the best choices to be considered.
